

RMB Capital Welcomes Raj Bhatia as Director of Information Technology

CHICAGO-May 13, 2015 – Raj Bhatia has joined RMB Capital (“RMB”), an independent financial services firm with more than $4.3 billion in assets under management, in the new role of Director of Information Technology. As a member of RMB Capital’s leadership team, Bhatia will ensure the firm’s strategic vision and technology platform are aligned.

“We’re thrilled to welcome Raj to our team,” said Walter Clark, chief operating officer of RMB Capital. “Technology is critical to our business, as it influences absolutely everything we do – from client communication, investment management, internal operations, and on and on. Raj’s deep understanding of our industry, coupled with his experience and technical knowledge, will propel our technology initiatives forward and help to support our continued growth.”

Bhatia brings more than 20 years of experience and a passion for technology. In his new role, he leads the implementation and execution of RMB’s information technology initiatives, collaborating closely with the firm’s operations team as well as external partners and vendors.

Bhatia holds a Bachelor of Arts in Computer Science and Mathematics from Lawrence University. He began his career as a programmer and analyst and has held a number of roles including senior vice president, head of enterprise services for Calamos Investments; leader (global) IT for GETCO, LLC.; and most recently, chief technology officer for Rotella Capital Management.
